

Tuesday

We heard the white pelicans are up near Useppa. I hope we can get up there to see them while they're there.

Thursday

S & I took a Jensen's boat out for the afternoon. WOO HOO! We not only found the white pellicies, we got up pretty close and took a load of photos.

Friday

Met some friends up on Captiva. Andy Rosse Lane is hopping; we had to wait to get a table, but live music was great and it was such a nice evening to be outside.

Saturday

Drove to Naples to go gallery hopping with D. There was more modern art than I expected, a pleasant surprise. Caught a breezy sunset from the pier before heading home. Surfers were all over 50!

Sunday

Laid low at home this morning and got a surprise call from Italy. G&R are inbound to Sanibel in two weeks! Better start dieting NOW.

Wednesday

S surprised me with a sunset beach walk. Why do we forget to do this? It is SO relaxing. I could literally feel my heart rate coming down.

Thursday

Sneaked back over to the beach at lunchtime when I had a million other things to do. Maybe if I put a beach chair in my trunk, it would remind me to do this more often!

Friday

Early tennis, then S & I had dinner with P&C and M&E. Brought home leftover fish for Nemo. He practically inhaled it.

Saturday

Got that "where's the fish?" look from Nemo, first thing this morning. I gave him a canned sardine and he just looked at me like, "This is a joke, right?"

Sunday

What kind of word is "anhinga"? Doesn't exactly roll off the tongue.

Tuesday

A veritable who's who of Sanibel was at Andrea's at lunchtime. I almost didn't get out of there.

Thursday

Somebody's 16-year-old daughter was walking down the Periwinkle Way bike path in a little bitty bikini today. Mom and Dad are at the pool bar and don't have a clue; they'd probably ground her... ha ha.

Saturday

I am ready for the causeway bridge to be finished. I wonder how fast you could go down the high span on a skateboard?

Sunday

Ran up to Cabbage Key for what boaters and pilots call the $100 hamburger. It was worth it.
